

Contributors

Carl M. Johnson is a Ph.D. student in the Philosophy department at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. He earned his MA from the University of Hawaii in 2008 and a bachelor's degree from Furman University in 2004. From 2004 to 2006, he participated in the JET Program in Toyama, Japan.

James D. Sellmann was born and raised in the city of Niagara Fall, New York. He was awarded B.A. degrees in Psychology, and Philosophy from the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, and M.A. degrees in Asian Religions, and Philosophy, and the Ph.D. in Chinese philosophy from the University of Hawaii. He has published over 60 articles in various books, and journals such as Asian Philosophy, and Philosophy East and West. He is the Associate Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and professor of Philosophy at the University of Guam, U.S.A. He enjoys cooking, hiking, and recently gardening.

Michael Hong has a BA and MA in Political Science from Seoul National University, has a Ph.D in Political Philosophy from Nanterre University of France (Paris X) and he currently works as a Professor in Dong-A University, Republic of Korea.

Tan Soon Cheng, Ph D student, National University of Singapore, twice awarded the President's Graduate Fellowship from the University, studies the thought and beliefs of the Han-Wei and Jin Recluses. Her recent work 'Matters Concerning the Rites: An Examination of Huang Kuan's Commentaries on the Analects', is published in the Journal of the Confucius-Mencius Society, Taiwan.